Briefly

Children will talk to Santa

On Thursday, Dec. 19, from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., Santa Claus will call children on the telephone and listen to their Christmas gift lists.

Calls can be arranged by adults calling the Granite City Park District at 877-3059.

There is no charge for this program, but the children must live within the park district. A reservation must be made by 5 p.m. today (Wednesday).

Road-rules class in Granite City

An Illinois state "Rules of the Road" course will be conducted from 9 to 11 a.m. today (Wednesday) at the Granite City Township Building, 2060 Delmar Ave.

Sponsors are Secretary of State George Ryan and the Granite City Council of Senior Citizens.

Drivers of all ages will be welcome at the class and there is no charge.

The purpose is to help motorists pass the license renewal examination, including the vision and driving ability tests, the general written examination and the road sign test.

Heartless 'grinch' steals local family's Christmas

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

It was one of the hardest things Ann Colyer ever had to do and her voice cracks when she talks about it.

Friday evening, Colyer gathered her 11 grandchildren together and told them they need to prepare for a bleak Christmas — a burglar had taken all of their Christmas presents.

"I put off telling them as long as I could," she said. "But I couldn't just wait until Christmas and then tell them someone had stolen everything."

"The oldest (14 years old) took it pretty well. He just said 'Grandma, that's a real bummer.' And the two youngest (five months and 18 months) don't know what it means. But the rest are pretty upset."

Although Colyer lives on a fixed income, she said she always makes sure to get each grandchild something special for Christmas.

This year was especially important, she said, because one of her sons, the father of six of the children, had been killed in an auto wreck and her other son, the father of the other five, has been laid-off from work.

"I shop all year, beginning in January, so no one gets left out," she said. "I had just spent my whole December check — I'd kept $10 or so out for gas — and managed to get all of it done."

All of the presents were stored in a commercial storage unit in Pontoon Beach.

Then, last week, it happened. Colyer discovered someone had broken the lock on the storage unit and taken all of the toys. She said neither she nor the storage firm had insurance on the contents.

The presents, Colyer said, were the only things taken — "Just the stuff kids would want," she said. "Stuff adults would have wanted was left there."

The Pontoon Beach Police are investigating the burglary, but said they have no suspects.

"The police told us that, even if they found the things, it would be almost impossible to prove they are ours," Colyer said.

"One of the police officers said, 'There are department stores all over, so we couldn't prove they didn't buy it.'"

"But I'm hoping maybe the person who did it has a heart. Maybe the person who took the stuff thought I could go right out and buy more, but I can't. All my money is gone. I don't get another check until January, and that was it. It was all the Christmas we were going to have."

"So, if the person will bring back part of it, or anything, or even just one thing, I want to make it clear there will be no See GRINCH, Page 12A)

City joining lead lawsuit

Granite City and two of its residents have joined a lawsuit over the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's plan to remove lead-contaminated soil from a 97-block area surrounding the NL Industries/Taracorp site.

The city filed papers in federal court Friday to intervene in the action the United States is seeking against NL Industries and other potentially responsible parties for cleanup of the allegedly contaminated area.

The motion, filed on behalf of Granite City, Lafayette H. Hochuli of the 1600 block of Edison Avenue and Daniel M. McDowell of the 2200 block of Edison Avenue, alleges that the U.S. EPA failed to comply with sections of the "Superfund" law in the process of selection and implementation of the remedial action proposed for the contaminated site.

Alderman Craig Tarporff, chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee, said, "I hope the judicial system will hear us out."

Tarporff said it is rare for a municipality to seek to intervene in such an environmental case, but neither party in the civil action — U.S. EPA or the potentially responsible parties (PRPs) adequately represents the interests of the city or its residents in the matter.

A memorandum filed in support of the motion states just that. "It is clear the interests of the

Lead pile 'hazardous'

Granite City wants its day in court to present its concerns in the proposed U.S. EPA cleanup of the contaminated NL Industries/Taracorp site.

Ward 2 Alderman Craig Tarporff, chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee to assist the Illinois Department of Public Health in the investigation into lead contamination in the area, said neither party to the suit — the U.S. government (EPA) and the potentially responsible parties — is willing to address the city's interests.

Seat belt crackdown here

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

The Granite City Police Department has begun strict enforcement of Illinois' seat belt law.

Termed "Operation Buckle-down," the program included road blocks at Friday night and Saturday morning, and resulted in more than 60 arrests, according to Chief Don Knight.

Knight said the program has been a success.

"It is a proven fact seat belts save lives," Knight said. "Everyone should wear one. We are going to enforce the law in Granite City, and it is obvious the state is going to as well."

Road blocks at Nameoki Road and East 23rd Street from 10 p.m. to 5 a.m. Dec. 13-14, at Nameoki and Pontoon roads from 10 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. and at Edwardsville Road and 20th Street from 1:30 a.m. to 5 a.m.

The road blocks were manned by Illinois State Police troopers as well as Granite City's finest.

Forty administrative tickets were issued for failure to wear a seat belt, five citations for failing to have a driver's license, six for no liability insurance.

A seat belt 'miracle'

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

As with many things, there is no magic bullet or a mythical Superman to save the lives of those involved in tragic highway accidents.

They happen every day and kill or severely injure the innocent and the irresponsible. One easy and accessible thing can help — use of seat belts.

Seat belts do save lives. John

Hill of Granite City is living proof.

If not for a seat belt, he would have lost 18 years of living.

Hill walked into the Press-Record/Journal office Friday morning, Dec. 13, holding a newspaper clipping dated May 1973.

"With all this talk about safety and wearing seat belts, the police said I should come over and show you this. You wrote it," Hill said, giving the clipping it. (See "MIRACLE," Page 4A)

Tough decisions are facing lawmakers

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Finances will be the big topic of discussion in the upcoming legislative session in the Illinois General Assembly.

In fact, according to Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, "The number one topic and top priority will be the budget. The number two priority will be the budget, and the number three priority will be the budget."

Wolf said he does not intend to make light of the subject, or joke about it. "But I want to emphasize how important an issue it is."

"It appears as if the financial situation is even worse than last year, and the governor and the General Assembly have some tough decisions to make."

Wolf said the state's sources of income have not improved, and have possibly "gotten worse" since last year.

He said the state's two biggest sources of income, sales taxes and income taxes, are falling considerably short of projections this fiscal year.

"I'm not too sure the budget balancing act we did last July was not just a little bit wishful thinking," Wolf said.

He said a high unemployment rate translates into less income to tax and less spending by Illinoisans.

One income alternative that will be considered, Wolf said, will be expanded gambling. But he was not overly enthusiastic about it.

He said that, if video poker machines, popular in many establishments, were tied into a state system and gaming with them was legalized, it could pro-

Our sensitive guy has case of holiday stress

One of the sure signs that Christmas is upon us is that the newspapers, television and radio are full of doctors telling us — surprise! — that the holidays can be stressful.

It's great to live in the '90s, where every nameless dread of the past not only has a name — this case, the "Holiday Stress Syndrome" — but a plethora of experts to tell us how to deal with it. This normally entails buying a book, but can be as simple as telling yourself over and over, "chill-chill-chill-chill."

Recently, while listening to a radio talk-show, a cornerstone of modern society, I learned that women are nearly three times more likely to suffer from Holiday Stress Syndrome than are men. The main reason for this, the expert said, is that Christmas is seen as women's work. Baking the cookies, buying the gifts for Cousin Ernie, shopping amid thousands of other stressed-out women in malls where the muzak is playing "The Twelve Days of Christmas" by the Harry Simeone Chorale and undergoing all kinds of other tortures.

The expert said men are more likely to forget about Christmas until noon on Christmas Eve, when they decide to do their shopping. This means five or six hours of panic, followed by a late evening drinking and assembling toys. But then it's over.

Frankly, I must tell you this is bushwah. As a modern, sensitive, '90s kind of guy, I'm as stressed out as anybody about Christmas. This is because I not only have to worry about Christmas, but I must also worry about dozens of other things.

Putting up the ol' Christmas tree, for example. For years I've been lobbying for an artificial tree, one we could glue together and then glue all the ornaments. Throw down the old tree, the stinker, store it in the basement and haul it out next year. Or better yet, just leave it in the basement and have Christmas down there.

But no. Every year I must make a real, live tree stand more or less straight up and down and then wrap lights around it, thereby turning my hand into a pin cushion of surgically sharp pine needles. And while I'm doing this, I must worry about the prospect of Pedro Guerrero playing left field for the Cardinals.

Are you kidding? He'd make Lonnie Smith look like Willie Mays. I also must put the outdoor lights up, which means I have to find an extension cord, a socket tap and climb up on a ladder, even though my mind is buzzing with the prospect of Carl Icahn bailing Troubadour Trans World Airlines out of its financial troubles by buying another bankrupt airline.

Eight thousand of my neighbors here in St. Louis work for TWA, which is expected to file for bankruptcy next year, and Carl wants to buy Continental Airlines. If you have a beat-up car that doesn't work, do you fix it by buying another broken car? Or am I missing something here?

I must then turn my attention to fixing the egg nog, a traditional holiday chore made more stressful this year by the cut-throat tactics of Japanese nog importers. I search for the nutmeg and wonder if life wouldn't be simpler as a member of the St. Louis County Council. That way I could bill the taxpayers for snack food and fabrications, the way Councilman John Shear did. Surely egg nog is a public expense.

Or perhaps life would be simpler if I was on the board of the Florissant Valley Fire Protection District. That way I could run off to Vegas and leave my cares behind. And if the taxpayers griped about my spending, I could answer that I'd never attend another convention for them. That'd fix them.

I'm also in charge of programming the Christmas music on the stereo, a stressful job because every Christmas album we own includes "The Twelve Days of Christmas," the worst song ever written. As I erase it from every tape, I worry about censorship and the First Amendment just like that selfless record store owner in Fairview Heights. He hates 2 Live Crew and wouldn't have their records in his house. But he's willing to sell their albums to other people, despite the risk that he will make a profit, just to keep the flame of freedom burning.

I worry, too, about Mikhail Gorbachev and John Sununu. What will they do now? And what about Jamal Coleman? Just because he's copped a plea to a felony and been suspended from classes, shouldn't he be allowed to represent the University of Missouri as a basketball player?

The stress is awful. I go back to the egg nog, throw out the nog and keep the bourbon. Chill-chill-chill-chill.

Police log

Missouri men charged

A roadside safety check by Granite City police and Illinois State Police at 20th Street and Edwardsville Road resulted in the arrest of a Missouri driver and his passenger at 2:49 a.m. Dec. 14.

After halting a northbound auto operated by Kenneth Wayne Petrowski of Arnold, Mo., officers alleged seeing open cans of beer in the vehicle. And recovered from the auto's glove box was a clear plastic bag, allegedly containing less than 10 grams of cannabis.

Petrowski was charged with unlawful possession of cannabis and illegal transportation of alcohol. He posted $52 bail and was released.

Michael Joseph Zehnder, 21, of Crestwood, Mo., a passenger in the car, was charged with illegal possession of alcohol. He was released on his signature.

Vehicle trunk damaged

Alma J. Becerra of the 2800 block of Edwards Street reported Dec. 13 that the trunk lid on her 1990 Chevrolet sedan was scratched by vandals while the vehicle was parked at Niedringhaus School, 2801 State St.

Vehicle tires slashed

Irene Schwiervohn of the 3000 block of Wayne Avenue reported Dec. 13 that a rear tire on her 1991 Dodge sedan was damaged by a vandal using a knife.

Terry D. Hall of the 3000 block of Warren reported at the same time that a left front tire on a 1983 GMC Sierra truck also was punctured. Both vehicles were parked at the respective residences when the damage occurred.

State police warrant

While conducting a roadside safety check on Edwardsville Road at 20th Street at 3:12 a.m. Dec. 14, officers stopped a vehicle operated by Mark Christopher DeGonia, 31, of the 2600 block of Edwards Street and found the driver was wanted on a warrant. Illinois State Police at Collinsville alleged DeGonia failed to appear on a charge of driving while his license was suspended.

Granite City

Warrant for burglary

Officers went to Granite City High School at 10:35 a.m. Dec. 12 and arrested Michael Bryan Shearlock, 17, of Devon Hill Lane on a Madison County warrant charging burglary.

Check forgery arrest

Terry L. Williams, 30, of Washington Park was arrested at Shop 'n Save, 1 Nameoki Village Shopping Center, at 6:40 p.m. Dec. 6 and charged with forgery.

Venice police called the Granite City police to inform them that an unknown person was en route to Shop 'n Save to attempt to cash a stolen check.

Upon arrival, officers discovered Williams attempting to cash a check allegedly stolen from Clifford E. Mathis, 33, of Lee Wright Homes, Venice.

Williams told police she was Mathis' sister, authorities said.

Mathis told police he did not know Williams, and that his checkbook and Shop 'n Save courtesy card had been stolen from his residence the night of Dec. 5.

Woman suffers beating

Robert G. Applegate, 38, of the 1900 block of Benton Street was arrested at 12:39 a.m. Dec. 6 and charged with battery.

A 28-year-old Granite City woman told police Applegate struck her on the side of her head and face with his open hand.

A .357-caliber revolver was confiscated from the scene but was not used in the incident.

The victim went to the emergency room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center to have her injuries treated. Both sides of her head, near the temple area, were bruised and swollen, and she had bruises on her neck, chest, left arm, shoulder, elbow, left leg and foot, and under her ribs, according to a police report. She also reported loss of hearing in an ear.

Applegate was released after posting $102 cash as bail.

Arrested for battery

Stacy A. Filter, 27, of the 2400 block of Grand Avenue was arrested at 12:43 a.m. Dec. 6 and charged with two counts of battery.

Filter is alleged to have battered Charles Porter, 23, and Belinda Hagopian, 18, who both live in the same apartment building as Filter.

Filter was lodged pending $104 cash bail.

Drug possession arrest

Jeffrey L. Wells, 28, of the 1700 block of Spruce Street was arrested at 3:33 p.m. Dec. 6 and charged with unlawful possession of cannabis.

An officer was dispatched to the parking lot of Lenny's Tavern, 2001 Illinois Ave., in regard to a car striking a dumpster there.

While the officer talked to Wells, Wells removed a clear plastic bag containing less than 2½ grams of a substance alleged to be cannabis from his right front pants pocket, according to a police report.

Wells posted $60 cash as bail and was released.

Home ransacked

Ray Schorfeide, 63, of the 2500 block of East 25th Street, reported his residence was burglarized and ransacked sometime between 5:30 p.m. and 7:03 p.m. Dec. 1.

Taken from the home were a lock box containing $500 cash, a watch, a cordless telephone, two stereos, two jewelry boxes containing about $600 worth of jewelry each, two pillow cases, assorted cassette tapes and a purse containing $47 cash, a checkbook, charge cards and keys.

A gray tire tool, believed used to pry open a door and gain entry to the residence, was collected at the scene by police, a report states.

9 named in warrants

Nine area residents were named in warrants issued by Madison County State's Attorney William Haine from Dec. 9-11.

James P. Pope, 18, of the 2800 block of Hodges Avenue and Leonard W. Harper, 24, of Carbondale were each charged with two counts of residential burglary. The Madison County Sheriff's Department alleges that the pair burglarized homes in the 3700 block of Blackhawk and on Kay Lane in Edwardsville in Sept. 23 and 24 incidents. The two were being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $30,000 bond each.

Michael Shearlock, 17, of Devon Hill was charged with two counts of burglary. The Madison County Sheriff's Department alleges that Shearlock burglarized the Mount Zion Baptist Church on Mockingbird Lane on Oct. 25 and Nov. 11. Bond was set at $30,000.

Barbara Jean Handshy, 31, of the 2200 block of Grand Avenue and Bonnie Ann Hill, 32, of the 1900 block of Fourth Street, East Madison, were each charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance. Granite City police alleged that the two possessed less than 15 grams of cocaine in an Oct. 25 incident. Bond was set at $15,000 each.

Ivor Scott, 46, of the 300 block of Hill Street, Madison, was charged with retail theft of under $150 second subsequent offense. Granite City police alleged that Scott took nine bottles of cologne from the K mart store in a Dec. 8 incident.

According to the warrant, Scott was previously convicted of retail theft in Madison County in April 1990. Scott was being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

George Eugene Morgan, 36, of the 4000 block of Pontoon Road, and Andrew Lee Jones, 32, were each charged with residential burglary.

Demetrius Compton, 36, of the 500 block of Mercedita Street, Venice, was charged with burglary.

Shop burglarized

Brenda Whitaker, 29, owner of Reminiscence Shop, 1245 Niedringhaus Avenue, told police her shop was burglarized sometime between 6 p.m. Nov. 28 and 7 p.m. Dec. 1.

Reported missing were a $400 portable stereo, a telephone, three gallons of paint, a baseboard electric heater and three rolls of insulation.

Haine seeks 2nd term to 'finish job'

Madison County State's Attorney William Haine says he'll ask voters for a second term to take care of unfinished business. "I want to finish the job I started in 1988," Haine said in a statement released after he filed petitions for the Democratic nomination for state's attorney.

Dan O'Neill, an Illinois assistant attorney general, also has filed for the Democratic nomination. O'Neill has accused Haine of inefficiency and broken promises. He said Haine promised to end plea-bargaining when he knew it could not be done. But Haine said he has "delivered major parts of the program I had promised the voters."

He said he has kept promises to: — "Bring capital punishment back as a deterrent to murder in the county." He cited a death sentence handed down for a Troy man's murder.

— "Hire more full-time professional prosecutors." He said the office has been staffed by "professional prosecutors working for the people and no one else."

— "Provide regular training seminars for law enforcement." Prosecutors have been teaching classes on enforcement of drunk-driving laws and other topics, he said.

— "Work toward a policy of no plea-bargaining on major felonies." Haine conceded that plea-bargaining has not been eliminated. He said he has increased his staff "so that we are not forced into plea-bargaining because of large caseloads."

In a plea bargain, a defendant pleads guilty to a reduced charge in return for an agreed sentence.

His goal continues to be the elimination of plea-bargaining from the system in Madison County, Haine said. "I share the public's distaste for the concept but have learned that the system will not change overnight."

Haine said he is filing more felony charges, getting more convictions and sending more offenders to prison than at any time for which records are available.

three for driving under the influence of alcohol, two for illegal transportation of alcohol, one for unlawful possession of cannabis, and three for state seat belt violations, Knight said. One warrant arrest was also made.

Knight said there would be three or four road blocks set up for the same purpose in the next 12 months.

"We are going into the third year of the Illinois seat belt law," Knight said. "I think it is time to comply."

'Miracle'

to the reporter.

Encased in plastic, the clipping was faded but readable. The headline stated: "Seat belt 'fanatic' survives spectacular crash at Mitchell."

John Hill has not survived the last 18 years without pain and some frustration, but the first state troopers at the scene of his accident on May 19, 1973, believed it was a miracle that he was alive at all.

Hill, a locomotive engineer for Norfolk & Western Railroad, was on his way to work at the Humboldt railroad yards near Hall Street in north St. Louis when another driver clipped his car, sending Hill's vehicle plummeting down an embankment at Interstate 270 and the Chain of Rocks Canal bridge.

John Hill had been a "seat belt fanatic" to use his own words, for nine years before 9:15 p.m. Saturday, May 19, 1973. His dedication to buckling his seat belt undoubtedly saved his life and certainly prevented disfigurement and a crippled body.

On that day, Hill's 1969 Dodge Dart was propelled from Interstate 270 over the guard rail on the Chain of Rocks Canal bridge.

The car plummeted more than 20 feet down, cartwheeling and rolled over for about 500 feet before coming to a halt against a fence on an old road below.

Illinois State Troopers Rudy Diak and John Keller responded to the accident and others at the scene that day expressed astonishment that Hill survived the crash at all.

"Bobby Thomas Jr. and Dick Mizell came in the ambulance to take me to the hospital," Hill recalled.

He sustained cuts and bruises, had sutures taken to close a laceration on the left wrist and suffered bumps on the head and a neck injury.

He spent six days confined at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and then started outpatient therapy treatment at the hospital.

"I took 39 treatments on my neck," he said. But it was his back that gave him the worst problem and disqualified him from continuing to work as a locomotive engineer.

Despite what was thought at that time — that he would eventually return to work — it never happened. The therapy has never really stopped and to some degree continues to this day.

On Jan. 7, 1974, the railroad disqualified him for work. He tried to find other employment at a local plant and a body shop.

"It wasn't the neck injury, the arm or the knee; it was my back. They couldn't insure me and said I couldn't even push a broom."

Because he had worked less than 20 years for the railroad and was only 50, Hill was unable to get pension benefits.

"Mel Price (late U.S. Rep. Melvin Price) helped me get a small pension from the Army at the time. He fought for me for years and I still don't know how he did it but he did."

In 1986 at age 63, Hill did receive a partial railroad retirement. "They finally gave it to me after three doctors examined me," he said.

Hill, now 69, looks to be in good shape and his movements are quick.

That is, if one doesn't dwell on the aches and pains he experiences in the morning and the daily doses of calisthenics, light weight lifting and stretching exercises he continues to do on an alternating daily schedule.

"If I didn't do the exercises, I'd be in a (wheel) chair today," he said Friday.

"I still hurt in the neck and back. They always hurt, but especially this summer more than anytime since the accident. I talked with an orthopedic surgeon about it and he said it was because of the high humidity this past summer."

The accident in 1973 was caused by an unidentified driver traveling west on I-270 at a high rate of speed, estimated by officers at close to 90 mph, whose auto clipped the left rear of the Granite City man's car, launching it over the 34-inch-high guard rail.

Police never found the driver of the culprit car. The vehicle was licensed in Missouri and was left at the scene, straddling the guard rail.

"But they never found him (the driver). He ran away on foot," Hill said.

Authorities located the car's owner, an elderly widow woman in Missouri, Hill said. She told police that somebody must have borrowed the car, he said. They knew it wasn't the woman driving it.

There was an empty whiskey bottle and another bottle about half full in the vehicle, Hill said.

He was 50 at the time of the accident and had been an engineer for 17 years with the Norfolk & Western and Washburn railroads. In 1946, he had joined the Regular Army and spent 6½ years serving in Japan and Germany as a training sergeant.

It was in Japan that Hill learned some of the exercises he continues to do today to manipulate his fingers and wrists.

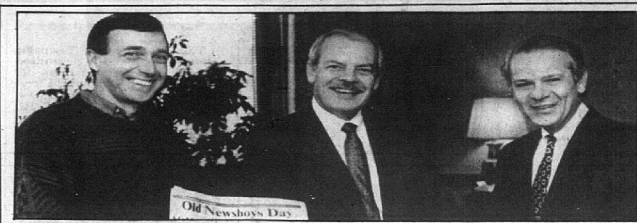

Hill said that he has worn seat belts for years. "I started wearing a belt long before you had to do it. I knew what the stockers (stock car racers) and Indy car drivers wore and it made sense."

In February 1964, I had Jerry at Matthews Chevrolet install seat belts in my car and we've worn them ever since. All my family wears them."

Hill and his wife, Geraldine, will celebrate 39 years of marriage in February 1992.

"I should be in a 'wooden kimono,' but that seat belt let me lean over the seat and that's what saved me," Hill said.

Thick, high weeds on the embankment down which his car rolled in 1973 were saturated with gasoline from the car's ruptured gas tank, but didn't catch on fire.

Passing the bucks — Lewis Levey, right, president of Paragon Group, presents a check for $8,089.47 to Tom Rice, president of the Suburban Journals, while Bob Mullich of Paragon Group looks on. The money was collected on Old Newsboys Day by Paragon employees who manned 40 area corners to hawk the special Old Newsboy Day edition of the Journal. Paragon workers also packed the kits used by the nearly 8,000 volunteers.

"I guess it was one quarter the man-made seat belt and three quarters because of the Man up there — God," Hill said.

Hill keeps busy. He serves as sunshine chairman for two local Masonic lodges, visiting fellow Masons who are ill.

The former locomotive engineer had another piece of advice.

"Don't ever go around the railroad crossing gates. I've had three very near misses driving the engine and it makes you lose your cool."

"One time at the Maryville Road crossing before the gates were there, a car tried to beat my train and I know he wasn't going to make it. There was no use throwing on the emergency (brake); the train would just slide.

"I couldn't see the driver, but I saw a woman inside wearing a white fur coat throw up her arms and I saw the horror on her face. There was about 1½ inches between the foot board and the front of the train and the car. The hair rose up on the back of my neck. That's stress."

Hill also advised not to pull too close to the crossing gates while waiting for a train to cross the road. Accidents do happen at crossings.

"Stay three of four car lengths back from the gates. Then if you see the cars are leaving the rail, you want to get out fast and run. God gave you legs, so run; don't just sit there; move it."

"I'd never told anybody they should wear a seat belt. I felt it was a personal thing with some people — they should wear it, but it's their personal business."

"But now it's the law, so that has changed."

"Seat belts are not infallible, but until something better comes along I'll use them after what they did for me, along with God," Hill said.

'Christmas for kids' program set for Saturday

'We hope to see a good crowd for this annual event. We know that everyone will enjoy it.'

—Frank Laub

"Santa will be there to present each child with a bag of goodies and each child will have the opportunity to win a new bicycle," Laub said.

He added that more than 70 community leaders and residents contributed more than $1,750 to make the program possible.

"We hope to see a good crowd for this annual event. We know that everyone will enjoy it," Laub said.

Sandy Pence, "Christmas for kids" chairman, said 500 to 600 children attended the event last year. "I hope we have a thousand this year," Pence said. The program is free. For further information, families may contact Laub at 876-1463 or Pence at 877-4255.

Group home Christmas party

The Jobs Now Network, a consortium of agencies and colleges, is for the second year in a row, "adopting" a residential home for Christmas.

Twin Rivers was the group home selected for this year's Christmas party. Residents of the home all have disabilities and, typically, do not have family members with which to celebrate the holidays. The Network will provide gifts and a traditional Christmas lunch at Depper's Restaurant, Alton.

The Jobs Network is also donating blankets and sheets to ETC, a group home for boys, located in Edwardsville.

The holidays are difficult times for some people and the Network tries to give at least a few more people something to look forward to. The Network attempts to educate the metropolitan area about people with disabilities by providing information, seminars, and events.

For further information regarding any one of these programs, call (618) 465-7190.

Family sues nurse in boy's death

A nurse's negligence contributed to the death of a year-old Edwardsville boy with respiratory problems earlier this year, his family claims in a lawsuit.

Nathan Dannenbrink was born three months prematurely on June 14, 1990, and died June 19, 1991.

Respiratory problems related to the boy's premature birth required the use of devices to help him breathe and an alarm to alert others to breathing difficulties, according to the lawsuit.

The suit alleges that a nurse was hired to watch him during the evening of June 18 and morning of June 19, but she removed the monitoring device, left his bedroom and fell asleep in another room.

When his breathing became difficult and stopped, she failed to resuscitate him or summon help in a timely manner, the lawsuit claims.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Effective December 28, 1991

Dr. Robert Hill will be retiring from the active practice of medicine.

Drs. Kumar and Patel will take over the office and the medical records.

If you choose to go to a doctor other than these, your records will be transferred to the doctor of your choice upon receipt of a written authorization.

Tires being tested as fuel source

Can old tires be a source of fuel?

Illinois Power plans long-term tests to find the answer. Based on successful short-term tests, Illinois Power is now planning an ambitious six-month test program to convert 5,000 tons of discarded tires into electricity at its Baldwin Power Station.

"Our short-term tests indicated a potential for larger scale use, but also pointed out some areas where more information is needed before we can make any long-term commitment," said Jene Robinson, Illinois Power manager of Environmental Affairs.

The proposed six-month test program will look at the long-term effects on plant equipment and operations from mixing shredded tire chunks with coal to fuel two of the Baldwin plant's three large generators. Two earlier tests — conducted in 1990 and 1991 — used about 500 tons of old tires to explore the feasibility of the program.

The utility must make sure burning the mixture of two percent tires and 98 percent coal does not damage the plant's fuel handling equipment or the boilers, and does not disrupt current recycling of "grit" from the plant's boilers, Robinson said.

The "grit" is recycled as granules for roofing shingles and sandblasting abrasive.

Illinois Power became involved in the innovative tire-burning program at the request of the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to help find a solution for disposing of the growing backlog of used tires in the state.

This program undertaken by Illinois Power could help turn a serious environmental problem into an energy-producing asset. More than 10 million used tires are discarded in Illinois annually, placing a strain on dwindling landfill space. Uncovered piles of tires pose a serious health hazard by providing a breeding ground for mosquitoes and create a potential fire hazard.

Illinois Power estimates it could dispose of up to six million tires annually if the long-term tests prove successful.

Applications open for SIUE housing

Applications for single-student housing are now being accepted for winter quarter at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

According to Michael Schultz, SIUE's director of housing, prospective students who commute and want to avoid the "expense, inconvenience, or danger of commuting during winter months" are encouraged to apply now because available space at SIUE's Tower Lake student housing complex will fill quickly. Students who submit applications early have a better chance of obtaining preferred space at Tower Lake, Schultz said.

A $100 fee is required with an application, which includes a $25 non-refundable fee and a $75 deposit that is refunded if a student decides not to move into a Tower Lake unit.

If a student signs a contract, the $75 becomes a security deposit that will be refunded after the student successfully completes terms of the contract.

The average single-student unit at Tower Lake has two bedrooms, a living room, dining area and bathroom, all shared by four students.

These units are completely furnished, with storage space and all utilities included, as well as telephone service.

Housing applications may be obtained at the Central Housing Office in the basement of the Rendleman Building, Room 0240;

by writing SIUE at Campus Box 1056, Edwardsville 62026-1056; or by calling 622-3351.

Group dances to keep Indian heritage alive

It is 15 minutes before show time and Teresa Sturdivant is sitting quietly under the shade of a maple tree.

Her brown leather, fringed and beaded costume sways gently with her every move. Meanwhile, the rest of the Kahok Dancers are reading their props — a peace pipe, multi-colored ribbons and sets of wooden maracas.

Cahokia Mounds is brimming with visitors. The 1991 Heritage America Festival is providing them with a glimpse of native American culture with pow wows, demonstrations of bead-working, native American food, and stickball games for children.

Like many others at the festival, Sturdivant is not native American, although her great-grandfather was Cherokee. But she is committed to keeping the traditions alive through dancing and story telling.

"When I was about nine or 10 years old, our next-door neighbor danced with the Cahokia Mounds dancers," Sturdivant said. "Soon, my brother became interested and then my mother and sister and I started dancing. My father helped make the costumes."

Sturdivant, 33, lives in Collinsville and is a housekeeper at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City. She has been with the Kahok Dancers for about three years.

"I enjoy watching the faces in the crowd as we perform. It makes me feel good to know I'm keeping the heritage of the native Americans alive. So much has been lost through the years," Sturdivant said.

"We don't pretend to be Indians or to tell people we are. We simply perform dances to help them get a better understanding of what native American life is like."

Frank Acardi, also of Collinsville, founded the Kahok Dancers more than 40 years ago when he began teaching native American dancing to a Boy Scout troop.

Acardi leads the group with the beat of a large drum. While the other 12 members dance, he tells stories and explains the symbolism of the dances.

The Kahok Dancers range in age from 12 to 33. They perform year-round at Cahokia Mounds and local festivals and practice every Thursday night at the

"We are constantly trying to learn and choreograph new dances. Our leader, Frank, has made trips to Indian reservations and shares what he has with us so we may enhance our dancing," Sturdivant said.

"I have traveled a lot and met many good people. I've been to reservations in Oklahoma, Arizona and South Dakota. I think I will always enjoy dancing. Besides that, it's a great workout."

HEEL PAIN?

If you are suffering from pain located at the bottom of the heel, you may have plantar fasciitis.

Plantar fasciitis refers to inflammation of a ligament that attaches to the heel bone and fans out into the toes. The inflammation may be due to a variety of etiologies, almost all of which may be resolved through conservative treatments.

If you have been putting up with this discomfort, feel free to call Dr. Tom Sexton.

Gays, lesbians plan holiday event at SIUE

KDHF-FM radio personality Mike Ford and feminist folk singer Emily Turner will be featured artists at the "Queermas Eve Ball," scheduled at 9 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 28, in Meridian Hall of the University Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Sponsored by the Gay and Lesbian Association of Students at SIUE, the non-alcoholic event is the first of what the association hopes will become an annual gathering, says GLASS President Matt Marco.

"At this time of year, between two major holidays, many members of the gay and lesbian community are spending the time alone because their traditional families have abandoned them," Marco explained. "With this annual event, GLASS hopes to eliminate some of the rejection many of us feel during this time.

"The fact that this is a non-alcoholic event may be of interest to many members of the community who do not wish to or who cannot attend bars," Marco said. "This will definitely be accessible to those community members who are under the legal drinking age."

Holiday fire hazards pose annual threat

'Tis the season to be jolly. It is also a season for homeowners to be especially attentive to the fire hazards posed by the winter holidays.

In recent years, more than 600 fires per year have been started by ignition of Christmas trees, causing an average of 14 deaths, 70 injuries and $12.1 million in direct property damage.

The holiday decorations, extra cooking and parties also present potential fire problems.

State Fire Marshal Thomas L. Armstead warns, "On these festive occasions, we must take time to identify fire hazards and examine fire safety practices."

"People must pay particular attention to fire safety precautions and plan and practice escape drills so they are prepared in case a fire does occur."

The Office of the Illinois State Fire Marshal says that Christmas trees pose the biggest holiday fire threat and that natural trees are particularly dangerous. It offers a number of suggestions to help make homes safer this holiday season.

A fresh tree should be stored out-of-doors until it is time to decorate it. It should have sharp needles rather than dry, brittle needles that snap. The tree should have the bottom two inches of its trunk cut off and should be placed in water when it is brought into the house to be decorated.

All trees, whether natural, metal or artificial, should be set up away from heat sources, doorways and high-traffic areas. Artificial trees should carry a UL safety seal.

Lighting for all trees and decorations should be inspected for worn insulation, broken plugs and loose bulbs and sockets and should carry an approved safety-testing seal. Decorative lights should not be used on metallic trees.

In addition to safety precautions concerning Christmas trees, the fire marshal's office offers a number of other suggestions.

tions to keep the holidays and their celebrations safe.

Buy and install a smoke detector — it is the law in Illinois. Test and clean smoke detectors already in place in the home.

Practice home fire drills. Plan two exits from every room and designate an outdoor meeting place. Make sure all family members know this escape plan.

Keep presents away from the Christmas tree lights.

Do not overload electric outlets. Check power capacity of your house and stay within the wattage limits. Use extension cords sparingly.

Do not use indoor light sets outside. All outdoor light sets should be weather-proofed.

If you use candles, place them in a safe place away from any flammable material. Be sure all children know the danger of the candles, chafing dishes, potpourri scented pots, the fireplace and space heaters.

Make sure all exits are clear during holiday celebrations. Provide large ashtrays and dispose of smoking materials in covered metal waste containers at parties.

Be sure decorative lights are away from combustible materials.

Safe holiday driving urged

Gov. Jim Edgar urged holiday motorists to drive sober and safe this season as he unveiled a holiday campaign.

Edgar, Donald Judy, chairman of the Hotel-Motel Association, announced the promotion, "Drive Sober and Live to Celebrate Again," during a "mocktail" party where samples of non-alcoholic beverages were served.

"We are asking hotels, motels and restaurants to help make their patrons more aware of the hazards of drinking and driving," Edgar said.

"Having the support of the Hotel-Motel Association and the Illinois Restaurant Association is key to the success of this program."

"We have seen dramatic decreases in alcohol-related crashes during the past decade."

Recipe cards for drinks, coasters and posters with the "Drive Sober and Live to Celebrate Again" message will be used by members of the Hotel-Motel Association of Illinois and the Illinois Restaurant Association during the holiday season.

Flashing lights for Bend Road railroad crossing ordered by ICC

Illinois Commerce Commission Chairman Terrence L. Barnich has announced that on Nov. 20 the Commission entered an order requiring safety improvements at the Alton & Southern Railway/Big Bend Road grade crossing located approximately a half-mile south of Madison.

The order requires the installation of automatic flashing light signals at this location. This will enhance the safety of the crossing.

The cost to perform the signal installation is estimated to be $75,780, of which 90 percent is allocated to the Illinois Department of Transportation, utilizing federal funds, and the remaining 10 percent to the Grade Crossing Protection Fund administered by the commission.

The cost to install the new crossing surface is estimated to be $10,200 and is allocated 90 percent to IDOT and the remaining 10 percent to the railroad.

The railroad will bear the future cost to maintain the signal devices and the crossing surface.

The work is to be completed within one year.

Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene of Edwardsville said: "I am happy the commission has required the installation of automatic flashing light signals at this location. This will enhance the safety of the motoring public at the crossing."

Rep. Sam W. Wolf of Granite City commented: "I look forward to completion of the ordered improvements and am pleased the Grade Crossing Protection Fund is being used to relieve Nameoki Township of its normal 10 percent share of the signalization cost."

Costello promises hard work

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, described his legislative approach after filing Dec. 9 for nomination to a new term in the House of Representatives.

Costello, 42, is a candidate in the newly created 12th Congressional District in southwestern and southern Illinois. He was elected to the U.S. House in a 1988 special election to fill the vacancy created by the death of 22-term Rep. Melvin Price. Costello then was elected to full two-year terms in 1988 and 1990.

"Some candidates will make many promises, but I make only one promise... that I will work as hard as I can as their congressman," Costello said.

He said he has kept in close touch with his constituents since being elected to Congress, holding over 135 town hall meetings, coming home to Illinois every weekend, and visiting schools, hospitals, businesses and other private and public facilities.

He has held numerous constituent forums on government programs, including a U.S. service academy day for high school students, several Social Security seminars, a small business procurement seminar for area businesses, and an economic summit for area educators, labor and business leaders and public officials.

"My priority in the Congress is to bring the full benefit of our government and its services home to the people of my congressional district," Costello said. "I will also be the eyes and ears of those who send me to Washington when deciding the future policies of this nation."

Costello is a member of the House Public Works and Transportation Committee; the Science, Space and Technology Committee; and the Select Committee on Aging.

"Too often, our government is unresponsive to and ignorant of the real needs of the people," Costello said. "I have strived to be accessible, open and effective for those I represent, and I believe I have fulfilled that goal."

Costello also pointed to his legislative accomplishments to date in Congress, including federal funding for local transportation projects, passage of legislation with direct impact on southwestern Illinois and commitment to issues such as health care, education and fair trade.

Mail service at mall

St. Clair Square in Fairview Heights and the U.S. Postal Service have teamed up to offer shoppers a convenient service during the holiday season.

Shoppers can ship packages to loved ones and purchase stamps for cards and letters at the post office's satellite location at St. Clair Square on the upper level near Dillard's.

The postal service will be available Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Sunday from noon until 6 p.m. until Dec. 23.

Campo supporting Shimkus

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

A Springfield attorney announced Monday that he would not seek the Republican nomination in the new 20th Congressional District and threw his support behind Madison County Treasurer John Shimkus.

Terry Campo described Shimkus as an "honest, intelligent, hardworking and enthusiastic man," after announcing that he would not file for office. Campo made his announcement during a press conference in Shimkus' office. Monday was the last day to file for office.

Campo said his decision was largely based on Shimkus' receipt of the Sangamon County Republican Central Committee's endorsement. Madison County makes up about 21 percent of the voters in the new 20th District, with Sangamon County having the next highest voter concentration, 17 percent.

Campo said Shimkus received the endorsement largely because he "got in (the race) when he should have gotten in and did all of the right things."

Campo said he only announced his candidacy about six weeks ago and by the time he called his county board chairman for support "John had already seen him."

Campo's withdrawal from the race has left Shimkus as the only Republican candidate. Shimkus, 33, will challenge long-time incumbent U.S. Rep. Dick Durbin, D-Springfield. Lee A. Prosser of Glen Carbon is also running as an independent.

"John will be a fresh voice for reform in the U.S. Congress," Campo said.

Regarding that reform, Shimkus said he would like to see campaign finances addressed, as well as term limitations.

"The power of the incumbency keeps people from competing," Shimkus said. "You get one person elected and he's there."

If elected, Shimkus said he would limit himself to 10 years in office.

As for campaign financing, Shimkus said he will need to raise at least $250,000 so that people will consider him "a real candidate." Shimkus said he will be outspent by Durbin four to one. Durbin reported in June that he had $360,000 for his campaign.

Shimkus said that he and Campo "were fighting the same battle" and decided it would be better to focus on one campaign rather than "spend our money against each other in a primary."

Campo said he will return to his business law practice

Volunteers begin new programs at medical center

Volunteer Bernard Pinney helps dialysis patient Lena Braman of Granite City board the bus after a treatment at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Two new Volunteer Services programs at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City give patients and visitors a helping hand.

In the Escort Host Service, volunteers greet patients and visitors at the main entrance and assist them with directions. Or they lend a hand in helping patients in and out of wheelchairs. The program started with a suggestion from volunteer Bernard Pinney.

"I got the idea when I took my daughter to a hospital in St. Louis," Pinney said. "They had a similar service there, and I thought 'Why couldn't we do something like that at St. Elizabeth?'"

"I knew from volunteering here for the past nine years that I give a lot of directions to visitors."

So Pinney took his idea to Joyce Epperson, director of Volunteer Services, who allowed him to conduct an informal three-day survey which determined there was a need for the service.

"So far, we have five adult volunteers who work from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., times when most patients have appointments," Epperson said. "We assist an average of 25 visitors a day, five days a week. I think it's good for visitors, but also for volunteers who enjoy meeting other people."

But Pinney's involvement with the design of the program did not stop there. He got another idea during dinner at a local restaurant.

"It was raining and when we got ready to leave, workers from the restaurant escorted us to our cars with big umbrellas so we wouldn't get wet. I figured if it worked there, let's put it to work here," he said.

Epperson has ordered umbrellas for Escort Host Service volunteers to use with the service.

"I'm really excited about this program," Pinney said. "It's another way for me to help out. It gives me an enthusiasm within myself."

Epperson also is developing another new program called the Silver Spoon Volunteer Program.

"I was on the Skilled Nursing Unit visiting a volunteer who was a patient when her lunch arrived," Epperson said. "She was unable to feed herself and so I helped her. Then I began wondering if there is a need for volunteers to help feed patients on this floor."

After Epperson met with Sandy Hillmer, SNU supervisor, she decided to set up a program which allows volunteers to help feed patients in that unit.

"After volunteers are trained in emergency procedures and taught the correct way of feeding patients, we will begin the program," Epperson said.

"We are hoping to get two or three volunteers for each lunch and dinner shift. We will also accept volunteer assistance from associates who might prefer to help feed a patient on their own lunch hour."

Obituaries

John Pryor

John William Pryor, 87, of Granite City died at 7:15 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 14, 1991, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He had been ill for two years and a patient for 10 days.

Mr. Pryor was born Dec. 23, 1904, in Vandalia. He resided in Shobonier, Ill., for 16 years and Granite City for 35 years.

He was employed 35 years as a carpenter in Carpenters Local 633, retiring in 1975, and was a World War I Army veteran.

Survivors include his wife, Pearl (Smolek) Pryor, whom he married Aug. 31, 1940, in St. Charles; one son, Jon M. Pryor of Granite City; three daughters, Jeanne Stewart of Fairview Heights, Sally Chapey of Granite City and Joella Lipscomb of Sunnymead, Calif.; eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents.

Graveside services were held Tuesday at Fair Lawn Cemetery in Vandalia.

Thomas Memorial Mortuary of Granite City was in charge of arrangements.

Catherine Talbot

Catherine (Lener) Talbot, 73, of Sebastian, Fla., formerly of Granite City, died suddenly in the emergency room at Holmes Regional Medical Center 5:30 a.m. Sunday, Dec. 15, 1991.

Mrs. Talbot was born in Hillsboro, Ill., and had resided in Sebastian since 1978. She was a homemaker.

Survivors include her husband, Henry Talbot of Sebastian, and two sisters, Mary Ream of Port St. Lucie, Fla., and Rose Ingraham of St. Petersburg, Fla.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Ben and Elizabeth (Gerstell) Lener.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Strunk Funeral Home in Sebastian. Private burial will take place today (Wednesday) at Sunset Hill Memorial Estates near Edwardsville.

Davis Funeral Home in Granite City was in charge of local arrangements.

Charlotte Depping

Charlotte M. Depping, 65, of Doniphan, Mo., died at 8:15 p.m. Friday, Dec. 13, 1991, at Doctors Regional Medical Center in Poplar Bluff, Mo.

She was born April 1, 1926, in Edwardsville and was a former payroll clerk for Boise Cascade in St. Louis.

Survivors include one brother, Norbert H. Depping of Edwardsville, and two sisters, Irma Metcalf of Granite City and Ruby Mangoff of Madison.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Conrad F. and Minnie W. (Wibbing) Depping.

Funeral services were held Monday at Mater Funeral Home in Edwardsville. Burial was in Bartlett Cemetery in Pin Oak Township.

Memorials are suggested for the Cemetery Association or a charity of the donor's choice.

Lawsuit

U.S. EPA and the intervenors are directly divergent. U.S. EPA has flatly refused to modify or re-evaluate its plans despite the expressed desires of (the intervenors) even though this could be done without delaying the remedy," the memorandum states.

It says the EPA has refused to wait for the results of a blood lead study and environmental testing to "adequately evaluate the extent of required remediation."

"If the U.S. EPA was really concerned about our health, they wouldn't have waited five years to do something," Tarpoff said.

Similarly, "The (PRPs) are neither residents nor property owners in Granite City. Their health is not adversely affected and their property values are not driven down — they are merely being asked to pay for the remedy," the memorandum states.

"While they may sympathize with the concerns of the (intervenors), they are not themselves in the path of the challenged remedial action."

The EPA has proposed a large-scale excavation of over 1,000 residential yards in the area, and permanently depositing the soil on a pile at the Tarpoff site.

All soil with a lead level above 500 parts per million is targeted for cleanup. The plan may take as long as seven years to complete, according to the U.S. EPA Tarpoff site Record of Decision.

'Grinch'

prosecution and no questions asked. We just want at least a little of our Christmas back."

Colyer said that, if someone wants to arrange to return any or all of the presents, the person may call 797-1056.

"And the U.S. EPA has ignored the data as well," Tarpoff said.

The complaint filed Friday alleges the U.S. EPA's plan is not cost effective; doesn't take into account the potential threat to human health and the environment which the remedial action may cause; does not take into consideration short- and long-term impacts; the difficulty of implementation; acceptance by the Illinois Department of Public Health, acceptance by the community, and the technical and administrative feasibility of implementation; and does not consider the method and the cost of adverse impacts.

The complaint further alleges that the selection of the remedial action is arbitrary and capricious and not in accordance with law.

The complaint asks the court to enjoin the U.S. EPA from implementation of the remedial action.

In a related motion, also filed Friday, the city, Hochuli and McDowell ask the court to rule on the proposed remedial plan prior to determining any liability and damages or penalties in the case.

The intervenors' concerns include the fact that the remedial action may actually be more hazardous than existing conditions.

"The program may generate lead-bearing dust, which could be dispersed by the excavation of residents' yards, carried throughout the city streets, and then dumped in a pile at the Tarpoff plant, in the center of the remedial zone."

"Thus, rather than improving the environmental conditions in Granite City, U.S. EPA's remedial plan could result in the dispersal of lead particles, which residents might inhale or ingest," the memorandum states.

It also says the action will result in "additional duties for police, supervisors and health personnel to ensure the citizens' safety and welfare."

The very infrastructure of the city — its roads, utilities, sewer system, sidewalks and public transportation — will be affected by the constant stream of trucks and equipment needed for the disposal and transportation of such massive quantities of soil," according to the memorandum.

The city also says the EPA has refused to consider alternative possibilities to clean up the alleged contamination, including a roto-tilling process proposed by the PRPs.

Under the plan proposed by the PRPs, soil could be tilled until its lead concentration level is diluted to below 500 ppm.

The city has also questioned the scientific validity of the proposed 500 ppm figure, and says that the results of the blood lead and environmental studies will demonstrate the site-specific needs of the cleanup.

"If (EPA) wants to get technical, and choose 500 ppm (as the threshold), there are miles and miles along our highways to remediate," Tarpoff said.

He called the matter "a real gray area," and said EPA has "shown no real scientific data" to support the figure.

The 500 ppm figure was reached by the EPA utilizing an integrated uptake biokinetic computer model to predict the mean blood lead level and distribution among children ages 0 to six years.

According to the motion, the U.S. EPA used generalized default values rather than site-specific measurements to execute the model. That model is said to have recently come under fire by a significant portion of the scientific community.

Tarpoff called the biokinetic model "an embarrassment to science."

St. Louis Lead Recyclers, Johnson Controls Inc., American Telephone and Telegraph Co., Exide Corp., Southern Scrap, Iron and Metal Co. Inc., Allied Signal Inc., Gould Inc., and General Battery Corp. are named as defendants in the suit along with NL Industries.

Pile

Tarpoff said one of the city's main concerns is the lead pile at the 15th and State streets site.

The U.S. EPA has proposed digging up contaminated soil in a 97-block area around the site and dumping it on an existing pile of battery casings and lead particles on the site, near the city's central business district.

The pile would then be capped to prevent contaminants from becoming airborne.

Tarpoff said the location "is not a hazardous waste landfill, yet will be accommodating hazardous waste."

The action will more than triple the size of the current pile, according to a complaint filed in federal court Friday.

Tarpoff said the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency drilled four wells near the site in the early 1980s and found exceptionally high levels of lead between 14 feet and 15½ feet below ground level.

EPA concluded that the lead was being deposited in the soil from groundwater, and "it appears from the groundwater analysis data ... to be affected by the waste pile," according to the study's results, published in April 1983.

"This does not mean that the lead cannot become mobile again," the study also said.

Tarpoff said the U.S. EPA has ignored EPA's work, and refused to use the information in considering its plan for remedial action.

"Tarpoff obviously is not interested in the results," Tarpoff said, asserting that additional remedial action and removal of contaminants would result in additional costs to the PRPs.

ered in the upcoming session will be funding for education and environmental matters, Wolf said.

He said the state will consider conversion to income tax as opposed to property taxes as an alternative to fund education. But, he said, income tax is not as stable, especially at a time when the unemployment rate is rising, as the real estate tax.

Wolf said environmental issues continue to be important, and will be for some time to come. He said pollution of water and air "is a problem that's not getting any better."

He added that the recent Clean Air Act enacted by Congress could have a detrimental effect on Southern Illinois, especially on coal miners.

Private sector supplies most timber in state

The following column was written by Paula J. Voss-Maloney of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Illinois timber buyers are leaning heavily on the private sector for their supply of logs, according to a study done by foresters at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

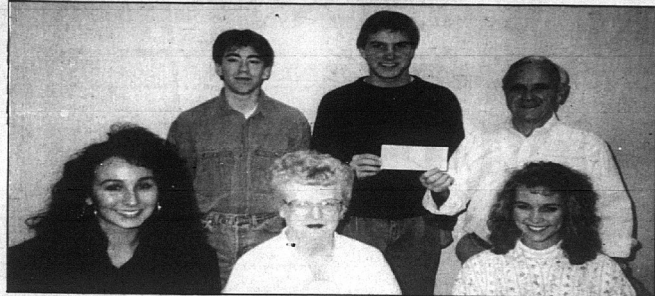

"Most of the timber purchased in Illinois comes from private landowners," said John E. Phelps, associate professor of forestry in SIU's College of Agriculture. The study, based on data from more than 500 Illinois timber buyers, shows that 96 percent of the timber purchased in 1990 came from the private sector.

Phelps said that a 1976 study also showed a majority of the timber came from the private landowners. Purchases from the Shawnee National Forest, the largest public landowner, decreased over the last five years, Phelps said. The report says many of the sawmills in Illinois are located north of the Shawnee National Forest, "making it more economical to harvest trees, that require less transportation."

The study also shows that more than three-fourths of all timber harvested in Illinois was processed within the state, and notes that the number of licensed buyers in Illinois jumped to 516 last year from 368 in 1976. Each buyer averaged about 13 different sales in 1990.

"Overall, timber buyers are now looking for a much higher quality product than in years past," Phelps said. Buyers were most frequently produced from timber purchased in 1990, with higher-price veneer logs a close second.

The total volume of timber purchased for 1990 totaled 231 million board feet. The study, conducted by Phelps and Dwight R. McCurdy, professor of forestry, compared timber purchase patterns for 1990 with 1976, 1982 and 1984.

SIU expects state to cut financing

Signs from the General Assembly may not make a merry Christmas for Southern Illinois University administrators.

As the state gets farther behind on its bills and Gov. Jim Edgar continues to refuse to borrow money to pay the backlog, interim SIU Chancellor James Brown said he was becoming convinced the university would face a cut in this year's funding.

"Finances are still a big mystery and still a big problem," Brown said. "I anticipate there will be a recession of state funding. But I don't know when and I don't know how much."

Because of the state's fiscal shortfall, universities and colleges might have to give back some of their state aid, he said.

Edgar warned that even education and welfare could be cut as officials search for ways to free money. "I don't think anyone should expect to be spared," the governor said.

The state comptroller's office blames the recession and past overbudgeting for the lack of money in the general fund.

The comptroller's office has bills totaling more than $546 million, but the state's general fund stood at only $6.5 million in early December.

Comptroller Dawn Clark Netsch issued her most forceful plea for borrowing Dec. 11, saying the backlog of bills is approaching crisis proportions.

"We cannot continue to do what we are doing to people in this state," she said at a news conference. "We are going to have to pay these bills."

But Edgar said a plan for budget cuts must come before borrowing.

"Until we see some cuts, I can't be assured we'll be able to pay the money back," he said.

Revenues are running tens of millions of dollars below projections, forcing the governor's office to look at cutting the current budget. A cut in this year's appropriation to all levels of education is one of the expected money-saving measures.

"Whether this happens will be decided in January after the state fiscal authority looks at the whole picture," Brown said.

Edgar confirmed that time frame during a news conference Dec. 11.

"I will be ready in January to address this matter when the Legislature's in," Edgar said. "I hope they will want to address it in a responsible manner."

If SIU at Edwardsville has to give the state back more than 3 percent of its $67 million appropriation, administrators would have to look at deep and drastic cuts, Brown warned.

"With more than a 3 percent recession, we would be in a position where we would have to make a severe examination of our programs and people," Brown said.

Because the university system receives all of its general state aid in a lump sum at the start of the fiscal year in July, it has not had to wait for payments.

J. Smith's heroics again beat Tigers

By Dave Jefferson
Correspondent

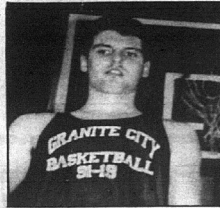

Jeff Smith did it again, and the Edwardsville Tigers have to be getting tired of it.

Smith scored a putback basket at the buzzer Saturday night to give the Warriors a 70-68 victory at Joe Lucero Gymnasium. Granite City (3-1) survived a furious three-point attack from Edwardsville in the closing moments.

Smith led the Warriors (3-1) with 31 points. Drake Marshall added 14 points and Brian Smith scored 10. Justin Range led Edwardsville with 18, while Andrew Thompson scored 12 and Andre Brundshaw added 11.

Smith, the Warriors' 6-9 senior center, had scored two dramatic baskets in one night at Lucero Gym last year. He tied the game as the buzzer sounded to end regulation time Feb. 15. He then won that game 92-90 with another basket as time expired in overtime.

The Warriors had led by as many as 10 points, but saw their lead slowly chipped away as the Tigers found the range from three-point territory. With less than 30 seconds to play, Thompson hit a three-pointer to tie the game at 68-68. Granite City called a timeout with 23 seconds left to map its strategy.

Trojans go to 3-0

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

Basketball is supposed to be a big man's game. Don't tell that to Eugene Williams.

The diminutive Trojan guard made four steals and scored seven points in a 15-0 second quarter run which was the difference in Madison's 72-68 win over Mater Dei on Saturday.

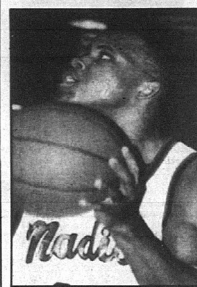

"That kid was the difference," said Trojan coach Al Collins after his team had improved to 3-0. "We were a little tight at the time, but he turned it up a notch at the right time."

"We didn't want to let them have any spurs," said Mater Dei coach Dennis Trane after his team fell to 2-3. "We had a few bad passes, our defense wasn't aggressive and they took over."

The Trojans got out to a sluggish start as the Knights led 18-13 after one period. Mater Dei, led by 6-7 senior center Glen Haake, controlled the boards early. The Knights out-rebounded Madison 11-1 in the first quarter and 27-18 for the game.

Haake had 18 points and 14 rebounds while holding a deci-

Williams improves attitude, game

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

Ron Williams is a menacing sight on the basketball court.

Williams, a junior at Madison High School, stands 6-3½ and weighs 215 pounds. He leads the area in rebounding (13.7 a game) and is fourth in scoring (22.0 points per game). Those numbers are enough to intimidate anybody.

For his efforts, Williams has been named this week's East Side Publications Journal Athlete of the Week. He has been one of the main reasons the Trojans have gotten off to a 3-0 start.

"I'm doing what the team expects of me," Williams said. "The team needs someone to be a force inside. I've done that quite well this season. The quick start doesn't surprise me because I've worked very hard to reach this level."

"I thank my coach (Al Collins) for working me hard, and my parents and my teammates for supporting me. My goal is to give 100 percent all the time."

Williams, who can also play on the perimeter, prefers playing inside.

"I love the contact," he said. "My game is physical basketball. I'm always anxious to show the other guy what I'm capable of doing in there. Fighting someone off for a rebound is a personal victory."

But Williams has had to improve his attitude.

"There's no telling what this guy can do if he straightens himself out," Madison coach Al Collins said. "Ron just has an attitude problem."

If he's not getting the ball enough, or someone blocks him out, he starts to pout. Instead, he should bear down and find other ways to beat his opponents."

Williams takes after his father (Ron Sr.).

"My dad was the same way when he was growing up," Williams said. "He made some mistakes, and he's out to make sure I don't make them. He's always telling me to worry about my game and to forget the mouth and play basketball."

Williams has certainly done that this season. "I'm a winner," Williams said. "But I have some growing up to do. Coach Collins and my father are always reminding me of that. It's something only I can do."

"I'm confident I'll turn things around. I've improved my game. Now it's time to improve my attitude and become a complete player."

Other candidates considered for Athlete of the Week were: Brandon Lott of the Cahokia wrestling team, Earl Steele of the Cahokia basketball team, and Derrick Bogan of the East St. Louis Lincoln basketball team.

(Each week one varsity athlete from Granite City, Madison, Venice, Cahokia, Duplo, East St. Louis or Lincoln high schools is selected by the Journal sports staff as the East Side Publications Journal Athlete of the Week. Selected athletes are eligible for consideration as the Journal Athlete of the Month.)

ABOUT YOUR FEET

Your feet deserve a specialist of their own!

Dr. Jeffrey Boberg
Diplomate, American Board of Podiatric Surgery

BUNIONS

Bunions are painful bumps that form on the inside of the foot near the big toe. The bunion deformity is the most common orthopedic deformity of the human foot. It has been estimated that greater than 15 percent of the population suffer from the problem. Because the bunion progressively worsens with time, accurate diagnosis and treatment are required.

The bump that appears is actually a normal size bone which is in an abnormal position. The result of splinting the bone in the foot. With this splinting, the big toe deviates towards the smaller toes often resulting in arthritis.

Bunions are caused by a mechanical fault within the foot which is usually inherited. The foot tends to widen with time and calluses will develop on the ball of the foot.

Bunions can be treated in a number of ways. Pain relief can be as simple as wearing a wider pair of shoes or protective padding. Physiotherapy exercises which support the arch and stabilize the ligaments and bones in the foot may prevent progression of the deformity.

Because bunions are structural deformities due to malalignment of the bones and joints, conservative therapy offers very little to the correction and long term relief of bunion. Operation with X-ray and subsequent surgery is the only way to remove bunions. The type of surgery depends upon the health of the patient and extent of the deformity.

Yates selected for conference

Matthew Yates of Granite City was selected to attend the National Young Leaders Conference from Nov. 12 to 17 in Washington, D.C. Having demonstrated academic achievement, leadership and citizenship, Matthew will be among 550 outstanding high school students from across the nation at the conference sponsored by the Congressional Youth Leadership Council.

The theme of the National Young Leaders Conference is "The Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today." Throughout the uniquely designed six-day conference, Matthew will meet with key leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of government, the media and the diplomatic corps.

Highlights of Matthew's week in Washington included welcoming remarks from a Member of Congress on the Floor of the United States House of Representatives and a panel discussion led by prominent journalists at the National Press Club. Matthew will explore presidential decision-making in a simulation entitled "If I Were President."

Founded in 1965, the Council is a non-profit, non-partisan educational organization committed to recognizing outstanding youth like Matthew and providing them with an "hands-on" civic learning experience in the nation's capital. Over 375 members of the United States Congress join in the commitment to educational excellence as members of the Council's Honorary Congressional Board of Advisors.

Post 307, Auxiliary members help at shops

Several members of Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307 recently participated in the Christmas Gift Shop program at Veterans Administration hospitals.

The gift shops are arranged each year at the hospitals where gifts donated by the Legion Auxiliary units are displayed.

Patients at the hospitals may then select Christmas gifts for their family members at no charge.

Auxiliary and Legion post members assist the patients in selecting their gifts and then wrap the items chosen in colorful paper and bright ribbons so they are ready for Christmas giving.

Post 307 and Auxiliary members attending and assisting at the Dec. 3 gift shop at John Cochran VA Hospital in St. Louis, included Dolores Weis, Pauline Mersinger, Dorothy Hinson and Kenneth Hinson. Norma Hillmer of the local post also baked and donated six dozen cookies for the snack table.

Dorothy and Kenneth Hinson also traveled to Marion for the Dec. 6 gift shop at the Marion Veterans Hospital.

Joint chapter meeting of NSDAR

The Drusilla Andrews Chapter of Granite City, Ninian Edwards of Alton and the Edwardsville Chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution held a joint meeting at the Public Library at Edwardsville. The speaker was Mary Gustafson, Illinois regent, who serves 10,000 members of the DAR.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. John Spencer, regent of the Edwardsville Chapter, followed by a scripture reading by Jane Vanesler of the Drusilla Andrews Chapter and the grace by Mrs. Roland Wiegand of the Ninian Edwards Chapter.

The Pledge of Allegiance was given by Mrs. Helen Vellof of Ninian Edwards and American's Creed by Mrs. George Edwards, Edwardsville Chapter.

The President General's Message was given by Mrs. Glenn L. Eyer and National Defense report by Mrs. Charles Schweizer of the Edwardsville Chapter.

The National Anthem was sung by Linda Koenig, regent of the Drusilla Andrews Chapter. Gustafson's speech was titled "Keeping the Dream Alive" and outlined history of the DAR from its inception in 1891.

Rolls and coffee were served to guests and DAR members. Drusilla Andrews members attending included Judi Schatz, Audrey Sperry, Alvina Thureau, Sandra Wilkinson and Marie Reinhardt.

FOOD

There is a delicious—rub to easy-to-prepare roast.

Festive holiday meal bedecks table with fancy, easy roast

Dazzle dinner guests with a special menu, one that is delicious and elegant yet easy to cook and serve.

A roast is perfect. Roasting requires little attention, so it is one of the simplest cooking methods, making it ideal for entertaining a small group. The only equipment required for perfect results is a shallow roasting pan and a meat thermometer.

Lean and tender boneless veal leg roast is a sumptuous choice for a holiday meal. It is best cooked to medium doneness and should appear slightly pink in the center when carved. Cooking the roast to just the proper temperature assures moist, tender meat.

Bordering the sunny Mediterranean, the Provence region of France relies on intensely flavored ingredients like garlic, olive oil, tomatoes and herbs. In Veal Roast Provencal, a savory combination of parsley, garlic and thyme rubbed into the roast's surface complements the delicate flavor of the veal.

For a tasty sauce to accompany the roast, add white wine and tomatoes to the pan drippings. Complete the menu with a salad of seasonal greens, rice pilaf or barley and, of course, a festive dessert.

Veal roast Provencal

- 1/4 cup finely chopped fresh parsley
  - 2 tsp. olive or vegetable oil
  - 1 1/2 tsp. dried leaf thyme
  - 1/4 tsp. garlic powder
  - 1/4 tsp. coarsely ground black pepper
  - 1/4 tsp. salt
  - 1 (3 lb.) boneless veal leg roast
  - 1 can (14 1/2 oz.) whole peeled tomatoes
  - 1/2 cup dry white wine
- Reserve 1 tablespoon parsley. Combine remaining parsley, oil, thyme, garlic powder, pepper and salt. Rub over veal roast.

Do not preheat oven. Place roast, fat-side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in thickest part of meat not touching fat. Do not add water. Do not cover.

Roast about 33 to 35 minutes per pound in 325° oven until thermometer registers 155°. Transfer roast to warm platter. Let stand 15 to 20 minutes while preparing sauce. Temperature should rise to 160° during standing.

For sauce, drain tomatoes, reserving liquid. Seed and chop tomatoes. Drain fat from roasting pan, if necessary. Add tomatoes, reserved liquid and wine to roasting pan, scraping to loosen browned bits. Bring to boil. Reduce heat to medium-high and cook about 3 minutes until slightly thickened. Stir in reserved parsley.

Carve roast. Pass sauce. Serve with rice or barley, if desired. Makes 12 servings; 186 calories, 27 g protein, 6 g fat, 2 g carbohydrate, 178 mg sodium and 100 mg cholesterol each.

Hot soft Italian pretzels

For a non-fried snack, pretzels are a wonderful choice. Place 4 purchased soft pretzels in a microwave-safe plate. Squeeze or spread mustard evenly over top of each pretzel. Sprinkle each with 1/4 teaspoon Italian seasoning. Divide 1/4 cup (1 ounce) finely shredded provolone cheese over pretzels. Press cheese gently so it adheres to pretzel. Microwave on medium-high power 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 minutes, rotating plate once, until cheese is melted. Each pretzel has 131 calories, 5 g protein, 2 g fat and 22 g carbohydrate.

Delicious salad ideas run from soup to nuts

Salad makes a delicious counterpoint to soup. It is cool and crisp, so it provides crunch against the soft texture of soup. A baguette completes the flavors with another type of sensual experience. Instead of making traditional garlic bread, sprinkle French bread with dry Italian dressing mix and broil.

When making salad, toss ingredients and dressing in a plastic bag before serving. This evenly coats the salad with a controlled amount of dressing which results, so less is used. A small sprinkling of nuts or seeds on top offers color, flavor and crunch when the salad is served.

Lucky people left on the Christmas gift list will receive Cheery Cranberry Chocolate Chip Bread.

Personal holiday gifts come from kitchen

'Tis the season to be jolly. And it is not too late to make homemade food gifts. Keep a smile on your face and give a personalized treat.

Consider quick breads for gifts and make Cheery Cranberry Chocolate Chip Bread. One batch, full of semisweet chocolate chips, cranberries and pecan pieces, makes three small loaves. Bake them right in foil gift pans, available in many supermarkets or kitchen stores, then just wrap in clear or holiday colored cellophane and tie with a bow. These loaves make presentable hostess gifts and a nice way to remember the neighbors.

Cheery cranberry chocolate chip bread

- 1 cup semisweet chocolate chips
- 1 cup fresh or frozen cranberries, coarsely chopped
- 1/2 cup pecan pieces
- 2 tsp. grated orange peel
- 2 cups flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. baking soda
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 2 tsp. shortening
- 1/4 cup orange juice
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- Cocoa Drizzle Glaze

Use chocolate squares for icing, cutouts

Make a chocolate drizzle by placing 1 square semisweet chocolate in a resealable plastic sandwich bag. Close the bag. Microwave on high power about 1 minute. Fold down top of bag. Snip 1/8 inch off one corner. Drizzle onto pies, cookies, cakes.

For cutouts, melt 4 squares of Grease and flour three 5-by-3-inch loaf minipans. In small bowl, stir together chocolate chips, cranberries, pecans and orange peel.

In large bowl, stir together flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt. With pastry blender, cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in orange juice, egg and reserved chocolate chip mixture just until moistened. Divide evenly among prepared pans. Bake 40 to 45 minutes at 350° until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes. Remove from pans to wire rack. Cool completely.

Drizzle Chocolate Drizzle Glaze over top.

Makes 3 miniloaves.

Cocoa Drizzle Glaze: In small microwave-safe bowl, place 1 tablespoon butter or margarine. Microwave on high power 20 to 30 seconds until melted. Stir in 1 tablespoon cocoa and 1 tablespoon water. Microwave on high 15 to 30 seconds just until mixture is hot, slightly thickened and smooth when stirred. Do not boil. With wire whisk, stir in 1/2 cup confectioner's sugar and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, beating until smooth. If necessary, add additional water a few drops at a time until desired consistency.

Makes about 1/2 cup glaze.

semisweet chocolate. Pour onto cookie sheet lined with waxed paper. Spread 1/8-inch thick with spatula. Refrigerate 15 minutes. Cut out shapes with cookie cutters. Immediately lift from waxed paper with spatula or knife. Refrigerate until ready to use as garnish.

FOOD

Turkey is delicious and cooks quickly for a holiday feast.

Big bird comes in sections that cook up new traditions

Many people have discovered turkey's versatility, with the result that the favored bird is no longer reserved just for holidays. Still, many families are bound to the holiday tradition of roast turkey when there are many other festive and creative ways to serve it.

Supermarkets now offer a variety of turkey portions that can be sautéed in wine or broth, stir-fried or roasted in a fraction of the time devoted to cooking the big bird. Less than one-fourth of turkeys produced today actually make it to the supermarket in one piece. The rest are cut in selected parts or further processed into ground turkey, sausage or other foods.

In addition to the more familiar breast, drumsticks, thighs and wings, here are common labels found on turkey.

• Tenderloins: Filets cut from the breast, good for baking, broiling, poaching or grilling.

• Cutlets: Slices of breast meat cut 1/2- to 3/4-inch thick.

Nice for stir-fry or scalloppini.

• Steaks: Slices of breast meat cut 1/2- to 1-inch thick. Great for broiling, either plain or after marinating, for stir-frying or for kabobs. These microwave excellently.

Turkey, in fact, makes a great substitute in many recipes calling for beef and pork. Four ounces white turkey-meat without skin has only two grams fat, considerably lower than the fat content of most red meat.

Like chicken, turkey's fat is almost all in the skin or just underneath, where it can be removed easily. Studies have shown that the fat does not enter the meat during cooking, so it is fine to cook with the skin on. It should be removed before eating to keep fat low.

With its low-fat, high-protein content, however, turkey is particularly sensitive to high heat and overcooking, so cook it just until done. This usually is when the thickest part of the meat is no longer pink.

Turkey and Mushroom Creole is a deliciously different way to serve holiday turkey. With a mild Creole flavor, it is best served over brown rice.

Southern creole soup for two to enjoy

Southern Creole Soup is a combination that can be made by combining a few party leftovers, particularly from the appetizer table, with a can of soup.

In 1 1/2-quart saucepan, combine 1 can (10 3/4 ounces) tomato soup; 1 soup can water; 1/2 green bell pepper, chopped; 1/2 small onion, chopped; 1/2 cup cooked rice; 1/2 cup coarsely chopped cooked shrimp, and 1/4 teaspoon Louisiana-style hot sauce. Over medium heat or on medium-high setting of microwave oven, cook until heated through. Makes 2 servings.

Cooking tips

Meatballs can wait in freezer

When a party demands a large selection of appetizers, meatballs make an easy early fix-up. They freeze well and make last-minute party preparation easier. Brown and cook meatballs thoroughly.

Seal and freeze as soon as they have cooled. It is best to prepare and freeze sauce separately from meatballs. Store meatballs in freezer up to one month, whether they are served at a party or on meatballs sandwiches.

Substitute eggnog for milk

Substitute eggnog for milk in your favorite recipes. For example, hot cocoa can be made with eggnog for rich warmth. Stir ½ cup water into 3 tablespoons cocoa. Bring to boil. Boil and stir 1 minute. Stir in 1 quart dairy eggnog and 2 cups milk. Heat to serving temperature, stirring frequently.

Serve warm. If desired, top with sweetened whipped cream and drizzle with grenadine syrup.

Stained glass ornaments

Unwrap three (0.9-ounce each) rolls, five-flavor roll candy. Separate candy colors. Crush each set of like-colored candies. For each ornament, arrange 6 or 7 teddy bear graham cookies in circle, tree or heart shape on lightly greased foil-lined baking sheet. Fill center of each shape with 2 teaspoons crushed candies. Repeat to make a total of 10 ornaments.

Bake at 350° for 4 minutes or until candy melts. Place additional whole roll candy at one edge for hanging. Bake 30 seconds more to slightly melt and attach to ornament. Make certain there is a hole in candy part where string can be attached.

Cool. Peel from foil. Decorate as desired. Attach ribbon for hanging.

Almond-flavored coffee

Put 1 can (13 ounces) ground coffee in plastic bag. Add 4 tablespoons almond extract. Close bag and shake well.

Brew flavored coffee according to directions on can. Store unused coffee grounds in freezer. Delicious topped with whipped cream.

Teriyaki stir-fry salad

- 1/4 cup teriyaki sauce
- 1/4 cup pineapple juice
- 1 piece (2 inches) fresh ginger root, peeled, cut in slivers, or 2 tsp. ground ginger
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 lb. pork tenderloin
- 1/4 lb. pea pods
- 1/4 lb. mushrooms, sliced
- 1 cup sliced carrot
- 1 cup sliced green onion
- 3 tbsp. olive oil
- 4 cups torn greens, such as spinach, leaf lettuce, watercress or iceberg

Combine teriyaki sauce, pineapple juice, ginger and garlic in 2-quart baking dish.

Slice pork diagonally across grain in 1/4-inch strips. Add pork to sauce mixture. Marinate at room temperature 2 hours.

Drain meat, reserving marinade. Coat heavy skillet or wok with nonstick cooking spray. Stir-fry pork 3 to 5 minutes until meat is lightly browned. Remove meat.

Add oil to skillet. Stir-fry pea pods, mushrooms, carrot and onion until tender-crisp.

Line large serving platter or 8 individual salad plates with greens. Spoon vegetables over greens. Arrange pork over vegetables. Serve marinade warm with salad, if desired.

Makes 8 servings; 230 calories, 27 g protein, 8 g fat, 12 g carbohydrate, 762 mg sodium and 74 mg cholesterol each.

Recipe

Primavera with sausage

- 2 tbsp. olive or vegetable oil
- 2 carrots, sliced diagonally
- 1 large onion, cut in wedges
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 large green, red or yellow bell peppers, cut in thin strips
- 1 1/2 cups quartered fresh mushrooms
- 1 medium zucchini, sliced
- 1 lb. mild Italian sausage, cut in 1/2 inch pieces

- 3 cups marinara or spaghetti sauce
- 12 oz. uncooked spaghetti
- Sprig fresh rosemary and strips yellow bell pepper, for garnish (optional)

In 5-quart Dutch oven over medium-high heat, in hot oil cook carrots, onion and garlic 2 minutes, stirring frequently. Add bell pepper strips and mushrooms. Cook 2 minutes more. Add zucchini and cook 2 minutes more. With slotted spoon, remove vegetables to bowl. In same Dutch oven, cook sausage until thoroughly cooked and no longer pink inside, adding additional oil if necessary.

Return vegetables to Dutch oven. Stir in marinara sauce and heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low. Simmer, covered, 5 minutes. Serve over hot spaghetti. Garnish with rosemary and pepper strips. Makes 8 cups sauce or 6 main dish servings.

Travel books suggestions for Christmas gift giving

By Thomas Swick
Knight-Ridder News Service

Travel writing has been taking it on the chin lately. Or, considering its armchair associations, in the seat of the pants.

David Streitfeld recently wrote in the Washington Post that "the Great Travel Book Boom is over." That wasn't so bad, considering that the boom had arrived on the heels of Paul Fussell's pronouncement, in 1980, that the travel book was dead. Fussell assumed that, with the democratization of travel, there was no longer any need for a chosen few to tell us where they had been and what they had seen. It had all been seen already.

As if in concerted protest, a new wave of travel writers rose up that included writers as diverse as former Sotbey's buyer Bruce Chatwin and part-Cherokee Indian William Least Heat-Moon. The titles of their books—"In Patagonia" and "Blue Highways"—quickly took their place, in discussions of travel classics, along with George Orwell's "Homage to Catalonia" and John Steinbeck's "Travels With Charley."

Paul Theroux followed the phenomenal success of The Great Railway Bazaar with more train trips (South America and China) and walks (the United Kingdom) and began writing articles about a new and much less colorful passion (though one much better suited for a misanthrope)—kayaking.

Then two months ago, reviewing William Least Heat-Moon's new book, "Prairie Earth," in the New York Times Book Review, he scuttled the very genre that has brought him fame and fortune. "Travel writing," he wrote, is a queer and insufficient preoccupation, which is why I practice it only with my left hand.

Insufficient? Preoccupation? Left hand? Travel writers around the country must have shrunk in shame. Yet how many of Theroux's right-handed novels can you name?

The recent surge in travel books may slow; there seem already to be fewer new titles coming forth from Vintage Departures and Atlantic Monthly Press' Traveler series.

But travel books will continue to be written, published and, on rare occasions, gobbled up. Peter Mayle, author of "A Year in Provence" and its sequel "Toujours Provence," has had the rare privilege this year of occupying both the hardcover and paperback best seller lists. Part of the appeal of these works, though, is that they are as much appreciations of the good life as they are examinations of place.

For those of you who have a few people left on your holiday shopping list, or fear the boredom of a long afternoon with out-of-town relatives, I offer a few travel book suggestions.

—Chasing the Monsoon, by Alexander Frater, $21, Alfred A. Knopf. It is not enough simply to go somewhere anymore; the traveler of the 1990s must have a quest, a passion—in less charitable terms, a gimmick. Frater's is love of nature. And it seems quite sincere. Chief travel correspondent for the Observer in London, Frater grew up in the South Pacific, where he acquired his physician father's fascination with precipitation. Above his childhood bed hung a picture titled: "Cherrapunji, Assam: The Wettest Place on Earth."

As an adult, he decided to follow the monsoon as it cuts its annual summer swath through India. He is there on June 2 when it arrives at Kovalam, and follows it up the western coast, arriving for the monsoon parties in Goa. He is very good at describing the importance of the monsoon to Indian life and culture. He looks at the phenomenon, literally, from all angles, the most harrowing being from the window of an Air India plane.

—Cathay: A Journey in Search of Old China, by Fergus M. Bordewich, $19.95, Prentice Hall Press. Bordewich's quest is for that ancient Chinese world that has survived the atrocities of the new. For the most part, he fails in his quest, but the journey is redeemed by the strength of his observation and the beauty of his writing.

Also in the Destination series from Prentice Hall: "Long Ago in France," by M.F.K. Fisher, $18.95; "The Last Italian," by William Murray, $19.95 (some of which first appeared in The New Yorker); and "Best Nightmare on Earth," by Herbert Gold, $19.95, a memoir of the author's ongoing love affair with Haiti.

—Los Angeles: Capital of the Third World, by David Rieff, $20, Simon & Schuster. Just as travel writers can't wander aimlessly anymore, no longer can they just choose a city and jot down their impressions under the subtitle: "City of Contrasts." Now, in the analytical '90s, they must be probing decoders of meaning. As he demonstrated in his first book, "Coming to Miami," Rieff is interested in the Latinization of the United States. His insights are often important, though he runs the risk of thinking himself more in tune with poor Hispanic immigrants than is possible for a New York intellectual in expensive Texas boots.

Journals' tour to see splendor of Alaska

Alaska boasts more superlative statistics than any other state in the country. But all are dwarfed by a single reality: the sheer immensity of the land.

Consider: Alaska's total land area—581,000 square miles—is double the size of the next largest state, Texas. Almost 300 Delawareans would fit into the 49th state.

Mount McKinley—at 20,306 feet—is the highest point in North America and the Aleutian Trench—25,000 feet below sea level—is one of the Pacific's deepest ocean troughs.

Juneau—within over 3,000 square miles within its boundaries—has the largest area of any North American city—and the North Slope Borough—at 88,000 square miles (slightly larger than Idaho)—is the largest municipally governed entity in the world.

With only 450,000 people, Alaska has fewer than St. Louis County. If Manhattan had the relative population density of Alaska, only 14 people would live there.

You can experience the superlatives of Alaska by joining the Suburban Journals' Grand Alaska Tour in July. This special, limited capacity tour takes readers through all of Alaska, from the Barrow Eskimo Village to the Inside Passage in the south. Travel on jet flights, cruise ship, deluxe coach and flightseeing pontoon aircraft to experience Alaska in the tradition of the Journals' Grand Tours.

Readers desiring more information about Alaska are encouraged to read the "Alaska-Yukon Handbook" from Moon Publications. For details on the book and information on the Journals' Grand Tour, contact the tour coordinator at Tenholder Travel in St. Louis at 800-333-5910. Reservations are limited. The Journals' Grand Tours are operated and arranged by Tauck Tours Inc. and Tenholder Travel Inc.

SIUE station to air live jazz on New Year's

WSIE-FM (88.7), the public radio station of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will broadcast live from the Just Jazz Club in the Hotel Majestic in downtown St. Louis on New Year's Eve.

The program, "Coast to Coast New Year's Eve," will be one of three across the country — New York, St. Louis, and Indian Wells, Calif. — to be featured live on National Public Radio's "American Jazz Radio Festival."

WSIE's program, hosted by the station's morning jazz deejay Pat Grane, will be broadcast from 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 31, to 1:30 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 1.

The St. Louis program will feature Bobby Watson, Victor Lewis and their Horizon Group, and Benny Green and The Benny Green Trio.

Wynton Marsalis and Ruth Brown will perform at New York's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and Poncho Sanchez and the Rebirth Brass Band will perform on the West Coast.

Saxophonist Watson, who made a name for himself with jazz pioneer Art Blakey and his Jazz Messengers, formed the Horizon Group a decade ago. Watson has won "Downbeat" magazine's Jazz Musician of the Year award in the Talent Deserving Wider Recognition category. His latest recording, "Post-Motown Bop," features drummer and co-leader Lewis — who has played with Stan Getz, Woody Shaw and David Sanborn — trumpeter Melton Mustafa, pianist Edward Simon and Bassist Carroll Dashiell.

Watson says his aim with the new recording was to create the same feelings evoked by the Motown music sound, but in a jazz idiom.

"I want jazz to grab people the way the funk and soul of Motown grabbed us, and I want people to find their own special song just as we did with Motown."

Twenty-eight-year-old pianist Benny Green is also a Jazz Messenger alumnus and a student of Art Blakey. The Benny Green trio is rounded out by drummer Carl Allen and bassist Christian McBride.

"I've had the privilege of playing with some great musicians and I feel like the ball's in my court now," Green said.

As part of the Hotel Majestic's "Just Jazz New Year's Eve," the hotel is offering special packages. Reservations are required and may be made by calling (314) 436-2555.

For more information about the network programming for New Year's Eve, call WSIE-FM, 692-2222.

Children sought
for choir

The Center of Contemporary Arts (COCA) and A World of Difference are seeking for children ages 7 to 11 to participate in "Celebrating Diversity," a children's choir that is different from any other in St. Louis. Multiculturalism will be the focus of this project, in both the makeup of the ensemble and the content of the material presented. Music from a variety of cultures will be studied and sung by the group, including African, Native American, Asian and European. Children will be exposed to music theory, vocal work and performance skills. The choir will be directed by Diane Davenport, who has taught music theory and performance in St. Louis schools for over 25 years and is currently performing arts teacher at New City School.

"Celebrating Diversity" will rehearse from 4 to 5:30 p.m. on Wednesdays beginning Jan. 8 at the Center of Contemporary Arts, 524 Trinity Ave., University City. The fee is $50 per child for the semester. One or more public performances will be scheduled in the spring.

For more information, call 725-6555.

NEWS 4 ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, DEC. 10, 1991—Last June, when 15-year-old Eric Overschmidt of New Haven heard his mother calling urgently for his help, he knew by the sound of her voice that something was very wrong.

Running downstairs, Eric found his stepfather, Mark Hoerstack, unconscious on the bathroom floor. He wasn't breathing, and Eric knew he had to do something quickly. Without hesitation, he began rescue breathing on his stepfather while his mother ran to call an ambulance.

For his lifesaving efforts, Eric today received the American Red Cross, St. Louis Bi-State chapter, Lifesaver of the Month award from Channel 4 news anchor Larry Connors.

"It seemed like hours after my mom called the ambulance, but it was only five minutes," Eric said. "When the ambulance came, they continued CPR. After he was stabilized, they took him to the hospital."

Eric said he learned rescue breathing from TV programs and magazine articles, but both he and his mother plan to take a CPR class soon to make sure they know everything in case they should ever need to use CPR again.

He is very glad that he was able to help his stepfather in a frightening situation. "It was really spooky seeing someone you love almost dying in front of your eyes," said Eric.

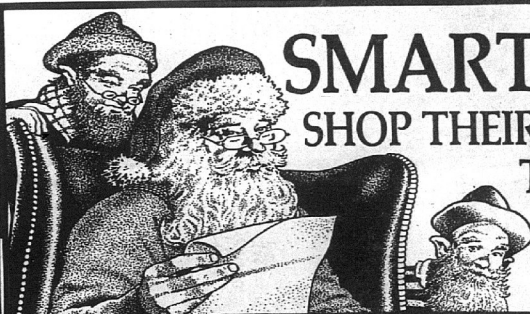

The lifesaving award is sponsored by Red Cross, Channel 4, Schnucks and the Suburban Journals. The St. Louis Bi-State Chapter of the American Red Cross initiated the program in 1985 to annually recognize unselfish heroes in the community. In April 1990, the program was expanded to honor an individual each month with the Lifesaver of the Month award. The program will culminate in March 1992 with the naming of the Lifesaver of the Year.

If you know someone who saved or sustained a life by using skills learned in a Red Cross health and safety course, Red Cross would like to hear from you. To request a nomination form, call Red Cross at (314) 658-2040, or pick one up at your neighborhood Schnucks courtesy desk.

The Lifesaving Award is a monthly feature of the Suburban Journals.

The members of St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ at 2101 Cleveland Blvd., have called the Rev. Rose Hermonat to be their new minister.

Hermonat is a graduate of Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa. She was a graduate of Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa. She was a teacher for 14 years and then attended Eden Seminary in St. Louis.

Hermonat was ordained in 1980 and has served churches in northern Illinois and Michigan. She began working at St. Peter Nov. 1.

Congregation members said they were excited about working with Pastor Rose and look forward to receiving new members during December.

Sunday School and Bible study meet each Sunday at 9 a.m. and worship service at 10:15 a.m.

Rev. Rose Hermonat
... new minister

Visitors are welcome.

Holder earns doctorate degree

Lawrence Holder, son of Jeanette and Lawrence Holder Sr.

received his doctorate degree in Computer Science from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in October.

Lawrence graduated valedictorian from Granite City High School in 1982. He then entered the University of Illinois where he earned a bachelor degree in Computer Engineering in 1986 and a master degree in Computer Science in 1988.

His doctoral dissertation investigated aspects of artificial intelligence and machine learning, which attempts to endow computers with the ability to learn as humans do.

Currently, Lawrence is continuing this area of research as an assistant professor in the Department of Computer Science Engineering at the University of Texas at Arlington.
